was an enormously fleshy old sister who was loud in her expressions of enthusiasm with which her heaving bosom was filled and was shouting "Hurrah for McKinley" at the topmost altitude of her stentorian vocal organs. It was there that George saw his chance, and stepping up to the old woman he pointed out Mr. Nance, and said: "That is our new president; that's Mr. McKinley." No sooner had he spoken than the old lady made a dive for the side of the carriage, reached in and grabbed Mr. Nance by the hand and congratulated him on his success and expressed her joy thereto. She also dilated at length on the great benefits of a gold standard currency and ran down a silver basis as a most reprehensible policy as she trudged beside the vehicle. Whether it was that Mr. Nance was embarrassed at being mistaken for so distinguished a personage or was weary of the old woman's chatter, he ran his hand in his pocket and gave her a dollar.

Briensburg, Ky. Rev. Wilson A. Utley filled his regular appointment at Bethlehem, Ill., (Johnson county) Sunday, the 8th inst. His next appointment will close his work at that place for the year. Brother Utley has done a wonderful work in Illinois and is well liked by all his acquaintances. He will likely preach for them in 1897. The election is over. McKinley is elected, and all you hear out of the Democrats and Popocrats is they have got beaten and they'd better do something. Mr. Tom Stringer will soon become the blacksmith to occupy the T. N. Walton stand at this place. Walton is going west. Mrs. H. C. Freeman, of Calvert City, is visiting in Briensburg this week. She is the guest of A. H. Freeman, M. D. and Mrs. Beatrice Field. It is reported that W. W. Nimmo keeps the best postoffice in the county. I beg to remain, JOLLY.

STEADY DEMAND FOR NAMES. Good Ones Bring Cash and the Traffic is Extensive.

The market for names has flamed up wonderfully since the days when Iago said there was something in them. Chicago is one of the biggest name-jobbing centers in the country. There are a great number of concerns, large and small, in the city which are engaged in this traffic. With some of them the same business is a kind of side line in connection with a clipping bureau. One of the largest has confined itself mainly to names of business houses of various kinds, which are furnished to other business houses for advertising purposes. The quotations for names of this character range all the way from $1.25 to $5 per 1,000, depending upon the number of concerns engaged in the particular line for which the names are desired and the time and trouble required in securing them. The bicycle business has grown to be one of such far-reaching influence that newspaper clipping bureaus, both in Chicago and in the east, publish a sheet once a week giving a list of all the bicycle factories reported since the last issue. As might be imagined, this business presents a number of curious phases, and clipping bureaus frequently get all sorts of queer orders from people who want the names of persons who are likely to be interested in some given subject or article. For a long time one of the clipping bureaus had a standing order from a manufacturer of artificial limbs for the names of all who might lose their legs or arms in accidents. Another man, a maker of artificial eyes, takes the names of everyone who has lost an eye. Another man, a baby carriage manufacturer in Michigan, takes the names of all newly-wedded couples, and in due course of time forwards a very neat pamphlet describing and illustrating his goods. People doing a mail order business sometimes sell to other concerns not in a competing line the names which they accumulate. The advertisement of one of these reads: "We have several thousand mail order names received with cash within a month. Names of people who are in the habit of ordering goods by mail and accompanying the order with cash have an obvious value. The secretaries of associations of a certain character have their lives made miserable by constant requests for a list of their members. The Western Hay Fever association furnished a notable case. No doubt there are some 200,000 unfortunate in the United States who begin to sneeze about the 1st of August and keep it up at pretty regular intervals until frost comes. The number of philanthropists who would like to cure them of the malady is almost as numerous as the sufferers themselves, and each one is anxious for these names for the purpose of presenting his particular nostrum. Repeated instances in the history of Chicago burglaries go to indicate that professional housebreakers keep well informed as to the movements of people who have jewelry to steal, and when they plan for a new mansion are published the information is carefully noted for future reference. There may be a private news agency which furnishes burglarious intelligence of this character, but if there is it does not advertise.—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Lula P. Handline today brought suit in the circuit court against her husband, George Handline, for divorce.

They are well known residents of the county, and have been married for several years. She is a good looking young woman and in her petition charges her husband with being an idle, inoffensive, good-for-nothing sort of a fellow. Non-support is the plea.

It is said that Engineer Sany Herring is hankering after his first love and is talking of purchasing a steamboat. Too many boats choking stumps now, Sandy. Better stick to the rails.

Judge "Bill" Reed, of Benton, and Mr. A. B. Lamb, of Paris, Tenn., two of the company's favorite attorneys, went out on No. 50 last p. m. They are at present defending the company's interests in the U. S. court here.

The party who went over to the "deep tangled wildwood" of Massac on a hunting expedition "yesterday" returned about dark. The sum total of their spoils was two sap suckers and a pocketful of pecans, but they say they had lots of fun.

Geo. Manager Thomas, a number of other officials, and a party of invited guests passed over the road yesterday from Nashville to Memphis bent on a hunting and fishing camping expedition at Horn Lake, Miss. They occupied Manager Thomas' special car, and it took three large transfer wagons to transport their outfit.

Engineer Ben Rodgers on the 306 came in away ahead of time yesterday with his face shaved as clean as a snowflake and sleek as slippery elm juice. The boys say he sacrificed his Napoleonic hairstyle in payment of a wager he made on the late election. Turn them out again Ben and ambush that cavity below your nasal feature.

Billy Kane tells a good joke on one of the boys who formerly drove an express wagon. His horse was almost as thin as a vapor and he was grieved by the other Jehu's unmercifully. One day he came into the store where Billy was counter hopping and bought a nickel's worth of corn and dime's worth of hay, gave it to his horse and said, "Now eat till you bust!"

Since the transfer boats ceased using the incline that institution has a deserted appearance; and has become the favorite hang out for the festive darkey, as with pole, line and seductive bait, he entices the finny tribe to change their place of residence from the limpid waters of the placid Tennessee to the seething frying pan.

Dodgers announcing the appearance of the "Kentucky Colonel" on next Sunday morning "Chock full up to de muzzle" are out. It is to be in pamphlet form and issued each Sunday morning by the "Kentucky Colonel Publishing Co." of the city. Should it be loaded with choice literature as heavily as we have seen this namesake on various occasions, we predict a long and extensive "jag" for it.

Geo. Gates, he of the tank flag known, tells a good joke on Mr. Jno. Nance, the heat blacksmith, for whom he wields the sledge. George says that in the grand parade last Tuesday night Mr. Nance occupied with several friends a prominent place in the procession seated in a carriage with a stovepipe chapeau covering his hairless cranium. A few days prior to the jubilee Mr. Nance, thinking that the few gray hairs interspersed among the golden threads of his heavy mustache gave him too venerable a look, had the tonsorial artist to remove it. When he appeared at the shops Monday morning it was the general remark that he bore a striking resemblance to the pictures of his political idol, McKinley, and he did make a fair appearance as the procession wound its way along the streets under the electric lights, and amid the flashes of the many colored pyrotechnics. At the corner of Ninth and Broadway an immense crowd of colored people were congregated to witness the parade.

Runaway Boys. A telegram was received at police headquarters this afternoon from Mr. M. M. Marshall, of Dyersburg, asking that a lookout be kept for his two sons and a colored boy who ran away from home last night. Nothing has been seen of them here.

In addition the pastor has instilled the hearts of his followers a truer feeling of good. The church has been almost finished, $5,000 having been raised in money. Sunday Rev. Ramsey will preach at the First Christian church and Monday leaves for Jackson, Tenn., to attend conference. He cannot return to Paducah by virtue of the laws governing the conference. His probable successor is Rev. Haunauer, now of Memphis.

A NOISY NIMROD. Uses His Hunting Whistles and Draws a Crowd. No, there is no zoological garden or anything of that sort at Fifth and Broadway. Frequently pedestrians may be seen to stop and look around to discover whence emanate those turkey calls and duck "quacks" and "Bob White" whistles, at in vain.

A SEX REPORTER ascertained the source this morning, however. Dr. Dick Walker is the guilty man. He is soon to leave for Redfoot Lake on a hunt, and has all sorts of hunting contrivances, including turkey and duck and goose calls, dreve ducks and nearly everything else. He has his regular hours for practice and that is what the people hear when they pass along at Fifth and Broadway.

FATHER BOARMAN'S LECTURE The Subject of "Confession" Exhaustively Handled.

Father Boorman, the jesuit missionary, had a large audience last night to hear his lecture on "Confession." The church was crowded to the utmost. The Reverend Father handled the subject exhaustively, treating it from a Biblical and historical standpoint. He also discussed fully a number of the most forcible objections. The lecture was very interesting, and at times humorous. A large number of Protestants attended who, while probably not agreeing with Father Boorman's conclusions, were yet very much interested.
